THE BRC-20 Standard

WGPX is based on Bitcoin's time-tested and undefeated proof-of-work security infrastructure. WGPX uses recursive ordinal inscriptions and data daisy-chaining to enable new possibilities and opportunities for BRC-20 tokens at lower costs.

This allows for integration with Bitcoin-centric services and applications while also facilitating a fresh ecosystem for sim racing enthusiasts.

Token Utilities

In-Game Currency:

WGPX serves as the primary in-game currency, allowing players to purchase items, upgrades, and customizations for their racing cars.

Participation Fees:

Players can use WGPX with other cryptocurrencies to enter various in-game competitions, races, and challenges. These competitions often have entry fees, and prizes may be awarded in WGPX.

Staking and Earning:

WGPX can be staked on in-game cars participating in competitions and races. Fans can earn alongside the winners while cheering them all the way. This adds an element of excitement and immersion for fans who choose to stake on their favoured car and driver.

Ownership of NFTs:

Some in-game assets, such as racing cars, skins, and accessories, are represented as NFTs on the Bitcoin blockchain [Ordinals]. WGPX is used to purchase and trade these NFTs, giving players true ownership of their virtual assets.

Trading and Marketplace:

The marketplace within Web3 GP allows racers to buy, sell, and trade NFTs and other in-game assets using WGPX. This marketplace is driven by player demand and supply, creating a player-driven economy.

Achievement-Based Rewards:

Racers can earn WGPX as rewards for completing in-game achievements, such as winning races, setting records, or reaching specific milestones.

Content Creation

Players who create and share user-generated content, including custom car skins and tracks, can earn WGPX based on the usage and popularity of their creations.

Advertising Benefits

When using WGPX to purchase in-game track banners, on-car logo displays and other advertisements, the advertiser will benefit from a discounted advertising rate and extra visibility.

Decision-Making

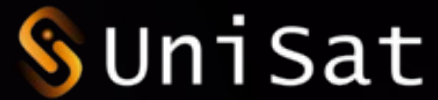

WGPX holders have a say in the game's development and governance through decentralized decision-making mechanisms. This involves voting on proposals for game updates or changes, adding a layer of community involvement and influence over the game's direction.
